The Franklin county precinct bill passed the House on yesterday by a vote 49 to 37, a strict party vote with one exception. The provisions of the bill were just and fair within themselves and the whole was a mild and peaceful remedy for the outrages which have constantly attended the elections in this precinct.

The Representative of this county, for reasons best known to himself, has fought this measure with pertinacity ever since it has been before the Legislature, and on yesterday, after employing a plausible and conciliatory mode of attack as long as he deemed it available, showed his true colors at last, and, in the name of the Opposition society of this place, defied the Legislature of Kentucky. The gauntlet thus defiantly hurled in the face of the Democracy was promptly taken up by Messrs. Gaither, Dobyns, Leach, and Johnson, who retorted in most eloquent and scathing denunciation of the practices of the K. N. party at elections in this place, and completely overwhelmed their antagonist. The debate was one of the most interesting and animated that have occurred this session, and Messrs. Carlisle, Gaither, Dobyns, Leach, Acree, and Johnson are entitled to the warmest thanks of the Democracy of Franklin for the able and efficient support of their cause rendered upon the floor of the House. As an attentive listener to the discussion, and one possessed of a full knowledge of all the facts, we cannot close this paragraph in justice to the gentleman above named, without remarking that all the statements made by them in reference to occurrences at our polls were substantially correct. What Mr. Dobyns said of the assault upon John Shannon last August accords with our recollection of an occurrence of which we were a spectator and witness, and what he said of the petition of Opposition men last session to be cut off from this precinct and attached to the Forks district, we know to be correct.

The Governor's Veto.

There are but three papers in the State which we have yet found to sustain the passage of the Commercial Bank bill. These are the Lebanon Democrat, Paducah Herald, and Louisville Courier. The following papers have spoken out in emphatic indorsement of the veto message, and we doubt not truly reflect the views of the people in their respective localities: The Louisville Democrat, the Kentucky Statesman, the Paris Flag, the Kentucky Yeoman, the Henry County Democrat, the Nicholasville Democrat, the Maysville Express, the Mountain Democrat, the Henderson Reporter, and the Ninth Legion.

The Opposition papers which have sustained the message are the Louisville Journal, the Maysville Eagle, the Georgetown Journal, Winchester Chronicle, Lebanon Central Kentuckian, Bowling-Green Gazette, and the list is not complete.

The Commonwealth in an article headed "Kentucky Democracy encouraging disunion and secession," imputes to Mr. Leach, of Henry, an intention to suppress inquiry upon the subject of the South Carolina resolutions asking for a Southern Convention. It is true that Mr. Leach did move to lay the Senate resolution on the table. He gave his reasons for making that motion, which were in substance, that in his opinion, if the Governor had received communications from the authorities of South Carolina, or any other State, with the request that he would lay the same before the Legislature, he (Mr. L.) had no doubt that His Excellency would have promptly discharged that duty without waiting to be reminded of it by the Legislature. Mr. Leach has not, on any occasion that we can remember, dodged or evaded any issue before the House—on the contrary, he has boldly met every question and vindicated the policy of his party on open grounds.

A Voice from Marion.

The Central Kentuckian, an Opposition paper published at Lebanon, strongly indorses the Governor's Veto Message. But we are permitted to make the following extract from a letter of one of the soundest Democrats and most substantial citizens of Marion county. Writing under date of "Lebanon, Ky., Feb. 22d, 1860," he says:

"The veto message on the Bank, reflects the time-honored principles of our party, and I am proud to see it give almost universal satisfaction with our party."

"I hear many of the Opposition say the message is consistent with the avowed principles of our party, and is the true policy of our noble State."

"A few about town (Lebanon) were in favor of the bank in order to get a bank here, but the Democracy say the Governor's course is consistent and his arguments safe and correct."

"Take the vote of Marion to-day on the increase of bank capital, and we can give a large majority—the editorial of our Lebanon Democrat to-day, and the pressure of the branch bank here, to the contrary, notwithstanding."

It has been stated in all the newspapers that the Governor of South Carolina had sent the resolutions of that State to all the Southern Governors. No doubt Gov. Magoffin has received them. Why don't he lay them before the Legislature? Is he afraid to follow the example of the brave Houston, of Texas, and condemn the treasonable proposition which has emanated from South Carolina? Is he afraid that his party will be injured if Kentucky expresses its views upon this subject? Is there no way to have these resolutions forthcoming—Commonwealth.

We are authorized to state that Gov. Magoffin has not received any resolutions from the State of South Carolina. We hope this will quiet all the Commonwealth's anxiety on the subject.

The subjoined card, in reference to a personal difficulty which occurred lately between a citizen of this place and Col. Finn, of Simpson county, will explain itself. We have only to add, without desiring to interfere in a personal difficulty between others, that we do not see how Col. Finn could with propriety have acted otherwise than he did in the meeting mentioned in his card, taking the facts as stated by him to be correct:

Letter from Dr. A. D. Cosby.

In the Yeoman of the 23d inst., there appeared an article under the caption entitled "A Personal Difficulty," (not written by the editor or published by his consent) charging unbecomingly of faith and practice upon certain Democratic Senators. The language of the writer evidently proves that he meant his uncalled for and unwarrantable abuse and vituperation to apply, not only to the Senators who voted against the apportionment bill, but also to those who voted to increase the capital stock of the Commercial Bank, the veto of the Governor notwithstanding.

Now as it is known to the public, through the journals of the Senate, that I voted with the Bank party on that subject, I hope I will be permitted to define my position, in order to set myself right before the Democratic party and right before the people. I will state that in 1856 I voted with the Democratic party, and I thought, upon a great national principle, and not upon the minor matters of State policy. The subject of banks constituted no part of the issues that were then before the people, or any part of the Cincinnati platform. The Democrats threw open the doors of their party, and invited the Old-Line Whigs, of which I was a humble member, and all of the conservative men of all parties, to rally under their banner, and co-operate with them in carrying out the principles involved in the compromise of 1856, the Kansas Nebraska bill, and the repeal of the Missouri restriction; but said not one word about State banks. It never occurred to me, therefore, that I would be bound as applicable to States, and become warm and strong in my opposition to these institutions. Nor did I once think that, should I fail to comply with the wishes of some of the party leaders of the Democracy, it would be my misfortune to fall under party ban and party proscription.

I again repeat, that the subject of banks constituted no part of the Cincinnati platform, which induced me to seek fellowship with the Democratic party. I was influenced by other, and in my judgment, more important reasons. I left the Whig party because I was dissatisfied with its State policy, nor did I join the Democratic party from any youthful partialities I ever entertained for it, but from the force and as the effect of a great national principle, from the fact that I regarded it as the only party that possessed the power as well as the will to control the destinies of the nation against the will of Northern fanaticism, and I will say to my anti-bank Democratic friends that, although I may differ with them widely in regard to this element of State policy, yet I considered myself as good a Democrat as they are, according to the terms of union and communion, as propounded and understood at the Cincinnati Convention. I expected to continue a Democrat. There is but one solitary contingency upon the occurrence of which there is the slightest probability of my ever ceasing to be a Democrat. Should the Democratic party ever lose its nationality, flitter down into factions, and become incapable of doing anything for itself and the country. In other words, should it be reduced to the same condition that the Old Whig party was in when I left it, and any other national party springs up, promising the preservation of this Union—in that event or contingency I would still act upon the conservative and Union-sustaining principle upon which I started out, and go over to said national party. I will not; I cannot consent to belong to and co-operate with a mere faction; the manifest tendency of it not object which is to sow the seeds of discord and disunion, and thus destroy the constitutional harmony of the country.

I am no party man, in the common acceptance of that term. When I left the Whig and went to the Democratic party, I raised myself above party trammels, and sacrificed all my party prejudices and party predilections at the altar of my country. I am a country first, and party next, is my motto under which I act. The man who would refuse to co-operate with an opposing party, when the good of his country and the safety of the Union were at stake, is, in my opinion, a traitor to the government under which he lives, and unworthy of the name of an American citizen. I hope the period will never roll up in my history, when I shall be so blinded by party zeal and party love that I cannot rally to the rescue of the Union, though I may have to co-operate with a party whose name I have been taught to hate from my infancy. I would appreciate a political party just in proportion as I conceived it was calculated to advance the great ends of our nation's existence. Whenever a party, therefore, loses its capability of doing good, it becomes the duty of conservative men to leave it, and fall into the ranks of those whose principles and whose numbers will enable them to carry out the provisions of the Federal Constitution, upon which the peace, prosperity and perpetuity of the nation depend.

Such are the sentiments and feelings I would labor to diffuse among my fellow countrymen. Let these sentiments be impressed upon the great heart of the American people, and our Union is safe. Senators, Greys, and Whigs, and their Black Republican confederates and Northern and Southern allies, may continue to sing their songs of negroism—may continue to shriek for freedom, and maintain the principle that Congress has the right to legislate unfriendly upon the subject of slavery, yet the Union will stand, for I take it for granted that there are conservative men enough in the nation, when the Union is the banner of a constitutional party, to save the country from the dangers of faction on the one hand, or sectionalism upon the other.

Such are the chords and ligaments by which I am bound over to the Democratic party, and such the issues I would form with the man who would attempt, either directly or indirectly, to call in these issues, I expect to stand as upon a rock, as behind a fortress, from which I never can be driven.

Next to my God, my family, and my country, do I love the Democratic party, do I love my Democratic brethren, regardless of their opinions in reference to banking institutions. I love the Democratic party, because it is the only party in whose power I can confide to save and preserve unharmed our federal relations; and, standing as it does upon the Constitution of the country and the fundamental principles on which are based our Republican institutions, I entertain not the shadow of a doubt but it will ultimately triumph over the head of all opposition.

The Democratic party, in its struggles to maintain its principles, can claim the consolation that Caesar gave to the intimidated fisherman. After Caesar's return to Rome from his conquest of Gaul, a civil war arose between him and Pompey. These two rival spirits contending for the mastery of Rome, Pompey found it necessary to flee from Italy into Greece. Caesar followed him, and had to cross the Adriatic in a small fishing boat, in the midst of a storm. The elements were raging high, and threatened the destruction of the boat. The fisherman greatly feared that he would be lost, but the proud Roman warrior was so confident of success, and so decided in his purposes, that he exclaimed: "Fear not, you carry on board Caesar and his fortunes." So in this political storm, though the elements may rage high, and in the estimation of some, seem to threaten a universal wreck, yet the Democratic party need not have any fears—they carry on board the Federal Constitution and the fortunes of this glorious Union.

COMMERCIAL BANK BILL.—The following brief but very expressive paragraph from the Bowling-Green Gazette, an independent paper, may be considered as reflecting the opinion and feeling of the people of South Western Kentucky. Neither they, nor we, are persuaded, four fifths of the masses in this Commonwealth, are prepared to sustain the Legislature in the premises:

Both Houses of the Kentucky Legislature have passed the Bank Bill, increasing the capital stock of the Commercial Bank of Kentucky, and giving to that institution the privilege of three additional branches, over Governor Magoffin's veto. We are not prepared to sustain the Legislature in the premises.

At the request of Senator Cosby, we give him space in our columns to explain his action in supporting the Commercial bank bill. His letter, which is well written, will be found in this issue of our paper.

A Card.

Having been grossly misinterpreted by a young man, drunk, and unknown to me, on the 23d inst., and the facts generally known, I have thought it due to myself to say that my purpose was to resent the indignity in a proper manner. I was on the street in search of the young man, when he met me in the presence of Sam. L. Geiger, Esq., and commenced an apology for his conduct. I informed him that I was then in search of him, and my purpose was to resent the insult; he said that he could not blame me if I should kick him over town, and made other apologetic statements.—Under these circumstances I desisted from further prosecuting my purpose.

JOHN A. FINN.

I was present during the interview alluded to above, between Mr. Finn and the other party. Mr. Finn's statement is in every respect true, and I corroborate the same in every particular.—The difference of the parties—the one a mere youth, inexperienced, indiscreet, and destitute of responsibility—the other a member of the Legislature, proficient in the duties of life, and with a full knowledge of what is due from man to his fellow creature, necessarily, in my opinion, precluded him from doing otherwise than as he did.

Mexican Mustang Liniment.
Its wonderful effects and consequent popularity—perhaps no article in the history of Medicine ever acquired the same patronage, was subjected to the same number of severe and different tests, and met with as few failures as the Mustang Liniment. It has justly been styled the Panacea for all external Wounds, Cuts, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, or Eruptions on Man or Beast. It is so far a medicine of surprising value, that Physicians are compelled to prescribe it, and from some remarkable cures of Chronic and Distorted Rheumatic cases it has naturally attracted much attention from the first scientific minds of the age. No family can afford to be without a bottle of the Mustang Liniment in the house. Beware of imitations.
The genuine is sold by respectable dealers in all parts of the world.
